STEWART CONSTRUCTION STAFF ATTENDS NATIONAL REMODELER'S CONFERENCE

Mark and Madge Stewart, Jim Skeens and other staff members of Stewart Construction attended the National Remodeler's Conference, held in Baltimore, MD.

The Remodeler's Conference, held each year, offers classes on the best remodeling practices and techniques in addition to the trade show, which exhibits the newest products available. Stewart and key staff regularly attend the conference. "This is a great way to see all the newest products and stay current on the best methods of remodeling. It's also a good opportunity to speak with the national reps of supply companies that we use every day," said Stewart.

In 2004, due to the storms and backlog of mitigation services available, Stewart became certified in mold mitigation. Stewart said, "I really did not intend to become a mitigation service, but mitigation had to be finished before we could complete the repairs for our clients. It just made sense to become certified for mitigation. It created a quicker job completion for our clients."
